Winter Warriors: Learn How Mammals Survive Winter

GENEVA, IL — People can put on coats, hats and gloves to keep warm during snowy Midwestern months. But what do Illinois mammals do to beat the cold?

Join a naturalist for “Mammals in Winter,” Saturday, Dec. 14, from 10:00 a.m. - 11:00 a.m., at Hampshire Forest Preserve. As we walk, we’ll look for signs of mammals, such as animal tracks, food caches, dens and various habitat. Come learn about the special adaptations that help wildlife survive the harsh winter environment.

This free program is for all ages. Children under age 18 must be accompanied by an adult.
