Kane County Unveils Climate Action Implementation Plan Draft

Kane County's has completed a draft of its first Climate Action Implementation Plan (CAIP). The CAIP is a document crafted by an 82-person volunteer team, including community members, business representatives, and County and municipal staff. Results from 1,000 participants to a county-wide survey helped to shape the direction and content of the draft CAIP.

The CAIP establishes goals and detailed actions across eight categories: transportation, building, waste management, water, local food, greenspace, health and the economy. The plan aims to increase resilience to climate change, reduce greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions (with a target of 25% below 2019 levels by 2030), and achieve carbon neutrality by 2050.

Kane County invites the public to contribute further by attending two upcoming meetings:

- When: February 6, 6:00-7:30 p.m. Where: Geneva Public Library, 227 S. 7th St, Geneva.
- When: February 7, 6:00-7:30 p.m. Where: Gail Borden Public Library, 270 N. Grove Ave., Elgin.

Public input is invaluable as Kane County works to finalize a comprehensive plan that guides climate actions for the County and municipalities.
